

Leverage Shares 3x Nvidia ETP (NVD3) Surpasses $200 Million AUM, Becomes Most Traded Product on LSE

London, UK – July 3, 2024 – Today, Leverage Shares, a leading exchange-traded product (ETP) issuer in Europe and the UK, is pleased to announce that its 3x Nvidia ETP \(NVD3\) has surpassed $200 million in assets under management (AUM). This milestone has propelled Leverage Shares to over $750 million in AUM across their dynamic product range, a figure they surpassed for the first time on July 1, 2024.

"The surge in popularity of the 3x Nvidia ETP \(NVD3\) ETP, demonstrates a clear trend: investors acknowledge the runway potential of the semiconductor sector," said Oktay Kavrak, Director of Communications and Strategy at Leverage Shares. "Put simply, semiconductors are the building blocks of innovation across the board and expected to outpace supply for the foreseeable future, making them a compelling investment theme clearly on the radar of forward-looking investors."

Thanks to this impressive rise in AUM and trading volumes, the Leverage Shares 3x Nvidia ETP (NVD3) has become the most popular ETP¹ on the London Stock Exchange (LSE), surpassing the previously dominant Leverage Shares 3x Tesla ETP. This significant milestone further cements NVD3's position as Leverage Shares' most popular offering within their innovative range of ETPs.

"The growing demand for innovative products from UK and EU traders is a testament to the evolving investment landscape," added Timothy Lafoux, Product & Business Development Manager at Leverage Shares. "At Leverage Shares, we are committed to democratizing access to investment tools suited for all kinds of investors. The success of NVD3 is a testament to our dedication to fulfilling this mission. We are thrilled to see investors capitalizing on the exciting growth potential within the semiconductor industry."

With over $3.7 billion traded across its range of ETPs to date in 2024 (+73% YoY) and an average monthly turnover of ~$620 million (+57% YoY), they are a leading issuer in both the UK and European markets. Leverage Shares is currently the largest in terms of number of products (ISINs) on LSE, offering nearly 150 ETPs encompassing single stock tickers, thematic indices, and commodity-based offerings.

With a dedicated product development team, Leverage Shares dynamic pipeline incorporates investor demand to democratize and introduce new and innovative tools that cater to evolving market trends.

One of the special features of Leverage Shares' ETPs is that many of the securities are equipped with leverage. This allows investors to participate with magnified exposure in increasing prices of the underlying securities while benefiting from a low management fee. All Leverage Shares ETPs are physically backed. This means the ETPs physically purchase the underlying instruments, so no swaps or derivatives are used to gain exposure.
